

Dear Members,

Season's Greetings!

It gives us a great pleasure to hand over this 10th issue of Vidarbha Journal Internal Medicine to you.

This journal is a special issue on “COMMON INFECTIONS IN PRACTICE”. The senior and experienced teachers from Vidarbha have contributed in this journal. The epidemic on Swine flu in Vidarbha, the HIV associated infections and resistant Malaria are some of the topics of common interest and are discussed by experts in this journal.

Case reports are the forerunners for common as well as uncommon clinical manifestations of various infections. This issue includes very interesting case reports. The authors have really taken extreme pains to investigate and come to specific diagnosis in such cases.

Since the journal has become indexed, the literature for publication is being poured from all corners of Vidarbha. The editorial board is extremely thankful for this overwhelming response from the academicians of Vidarbha.

The editorial board expresses their deep sense of gratitude towards all the authors who contributed in this issue and expect the same cooperation in future.

Wishing you all a very happy New Year and warm greetings of the season!

Dr. S.R. Tankhiwale

Editor, VJIM

February, 2011